

Stevens B. Elliott

Stevens B. Elliott has been in private practice since 1981. He graduated from USC in History, Magna cum laude, and the University of South Carolina Law School in 1981. A Large portion of his practice has been in the Family Court. He has used a number of private investigators in the pursuit of domestic case evidence. He is an U.S. Army veteran (1972-1975). He practiced with his two older brothers, Robert C. Elliott and Thomas E. Elliott, Jr. until 1985 when he opened up a branch office working solo. He has practiced with both sons, Christopher S. Elliott and B. Reynolds Elliott in his practice upon their receiving their J.D. degrees. Presently his son Reynolds works in the office, and still a large portion of their work is domestic related.

His practice has been a general practice to include criminal, probate, property, personal injury, civil litigation, and sparingly defense work. He is familiar with all the Courts, and he is experienced in what are the areas that private investigators can assist a working attorney.